

Free activities as priory hosts Kitchen Garden Day

The official launch of the Lewes Priory Community Kitchen Garden takes place at the ancient venue tomorrow (Saturday). It will feature a varied and interesting series of talks and workshops, and the opportunity to hear about the development of the project and plans for the future. Programme: 10am-12.30pm Wattle making workshop (willow cloche), Dominic Parrette (pre-booked); 10.30am-12.30pm Using herbs in the home, Julia Behrens; 10.30am-12.30pm Medieval food and cooking, Kate Hickmott and Helen Chiasson; 10.30am-12.30pm Medieval colour and scent, Martin and Karin Pett; 10.30am-12.30pm Growing and planting workshop: seeds and cuttings, Sally Stratton and Vivienne Macey; 12.30-1.30pm Break for lunch and for speeches and thanks, Tracy Anderson and Paul Benjamin; 1.30-4pm Making a wattle fence panel workshop, Dominic Parrette (pre-booked). 1.30-3.30pm Medieval food and cooking, Kate Hickmott and Helen Chiasson; 1.30-3.30pm

Medieval colour and scent, Martin and Karin Pett; 1.30-3.30pm Growing and planting workshop: seeds and cuttings, Vivienne Macey and Sally Stratton (until 2.30pm). Lewes Priory Trust's Kitchen Garden Day will continue until 4pm.